American Steamships—Subsidized Lines.

We confess, to no little surprise, at the unwonted opposition which is manifested by certain of the more influential of the American Press to the policy of subsidizing American lines of steamships by the United States Government—some of whom urge that when there is not sufficient commerce between the ports to render the carrying trade profitable, there is no necessity for direct communication. The fact that commerce does not spring up spontaneously wherever it might be desirable and advantageous to the mercantile community, but, like everything else, is the result of labor and enterprise, seems most unaccountably to be entirely ignored by the papers in question. The great advantages which the British Government confers upon the merchants of that nation over those of any and every other, by the numerous subsidized lines of steamships and packets, has always been the theme of comment among the business men of this city, and in fact the whole country, and the fact that, owing to the adverse policy which has been pursued by our Government, they have been compelled to rely exclusively upon the foreign facilities for the transportation of their goods and the transmission of their mails—requiring quick dispatch—has always been a source of regret and mortification. That the British policy of subsidizing steamship and packet lines, is every way advisable, the course of France, which is following in the wake of her powerful commercial rival, bears ample testimony, and that it is advantageous and profitable in the long run is demonstrated by the alacrity with which the British Government is wont to respond to the appeals from her enterprising merchants for assistance in the carrying out of any new project of this character.

Though England has already pushed her steamer lines along nearly all the commercial highways, which were first made common by her merchant ships, yet she stands ready to lend encouragement to every new enterprise which promises to add, if never so remotely, to the wealth and renown of the great Shipping Interest, which has rendered her the first Commercial Power on the globe. And while England continues to make rapid progress in this direction, France is by no means idle. On the contrary, taking her cue from England, and rightly arguing that whatever contributes to the building up of her commerce, in like measure enhances the wealth and greatness of the nation, she is endeavoring by every means in her power to build up a commerce by first establishing subsidized mail routes, which is found to be of steadily increasing advantage to both country and people. We have thus the example of two of the greatest commercial nations, and yet the United States Government, which affords the most ample postal facilities for all its citizens, no matter where located, and which, in our judgment, ought to lend its support to every enterprise which is calculated to contribute to building up Commerce and Trade, seems to regard with disfavor, if not with positive suspicion, every project which requires its aid, and turns a deaf ear to every appeal for assistance, even when it is apparent that the required aid if afforded, would eventually conduce to its own aggrandizement. The persistent refusal of Congress to afford material assistance in the formation of new steamship enterprises, and the endorsement of this policy by a portion of the American press, betray a commercial short-sightedness, which is rendered the more obvious by the generous and comprehensive policy of our great commercial rivals of the Old World. No one doubts that the great steam fleet of Great Britain has contributed immensely to her pre-eminence as a commercial Nation, and yet our statesmen do not seem to appreciate the fact that the same encouragement to American commercial enterprise would produce a similar result.

The important trade of Central and South America, which ought to belong to the United States, has been secured to British control alone by the sagacious and liberal policy of Great Britain in supporting regular steamship lines, which has secured her merchants frequent and regular communication with those countries. Thus, the trade of the United States with the whole South American coast, as well as in numerous other places, has been neutralized by the comprehensiveness and sagacity of British statesmen, and the preponderance of the opposite qualities in our own national representatives. The comparatively insignificant sums by which England has secured a monopoly of the World's commerce by means of her subsidized lines of steamships, are rendered still more insignificant when compared with the greatness and power which has been contributed to the British nation by means of her rapidly increasing commerce, and the immense growth in her merchant fleet. We sincerely trust that Congress will ere long wake up to a realizing sense of the erroneousness of the views in this connection, which have from time to time been recorded within the past decade, and that in future enterprising American merchants may be placed upon the same footing with those of other commercial countries. When this desirable end shall have been accomplished, we shall no more witness the mortifying spectacle of American steamship lines being forced to withdraw from the ocean to give place to the more favored lines of other nations, which has for so long a time been a source of sincere regret to a large number of enterprising and progressive Americans.—*N. THE ATTENTION OF SHIPPERS and passengers is particularly directed to the superior facilities the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company's Line affords for the speedy conveyance of Treasure, Goods and Passengers to and from England to British Columbia and Vancouver Island, in connection with the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's Vessels and the Panama Railroad.

The superiority of the accommodation and entertainment on board the Royal Mail Steamers, together with the time occupied on the passage between England and Aspinwall direct being so much shorter than by any other route, and the moderate rate of passage money, render this Company's steamers the CHEAPEST AND MOST EXPEDITIOUS MEANS OF TRANSIT, for passengers or for the forwarding of Goods and Treasure from Aspinwall to Europe.

Under an arrangement with the PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP CO., Specie and Bullion can be conveyed to London and Havre in France

OUR DEFENCES.

Notwithstanding all the progress that has been made during the last few centuries in nearly every department of human knowledge, and notwithstanding the boasted superiority of the more advanced modern nations over the ancients in nearly everything typical of a high state of civilization, there yet remains in humanity much of the old leaven of the savage. The belligerent tendency of the genus homo seems altogether too strong for supposing that nations will ever settle all their disputes by peaceful negotiation. "Wars, and rumors of wars" we will likely have, more or less, to the end of human generations on this sublunary sphere. Our only hope must be that they may be rendered as unfrequent as possible. The vast improvements that have taken place in modern times in implements of destruction, and the changes that have been effected in the construction and propulsion of shipping of war, would seem to be the channel through which that object is likely to be attained. War has now become no child's play, except when some powerful, civilized Government undertakes to chastize a weak or semi-barbarious nation, where success is all on one side. Between the great Powers of Europe, the consequences to all the parties to a struggle, are likely to be too damaging and doubtful for any of them to be desirous of engaging in one, except as dernier ressort. As a general thing too much they act upon the principle of being always prepared for any of them to inflict much damage on an another without getting more than would be agreeable in return, as is evident both from the Crimean war and the campaign in Italy, each of them successes for the invading parties, but purchased at rather too great a cost of blood and treasure. While, however, this is the case in Europe, and whilst no end of expense has been incurred in dotting the prominent points of that continent with almost impregnable fortresses, we fear that with regard to British possessions at least, it is becoming too much the fashion to leave their defence to chance and a strong navy. More particularly is this this noticeable with regard to the Colonies of the Pacific. Time was when there was little danger of their passing from the grasp of the mother country without her consent, and for that matter we don't say that would happen now, but in some respects, there is more danger of it now, than formerly. At one time, and that not many years ago, they were looked upon as scarcely worth fighting for. Our American neighbors held out strongly for 54.40, but finally thought, no doubt, that a few degrees less of latitude and longitude would be quite enough, and gave in. Things are changed now, however. The importance of the country which then caused such a war of words between the two nations has only lately begun to be known. The huge stride that the Caucassian race have made towards the north Pacific coast of America during the last fifteen years, have contributed to give an interest and an importance to this part of the continent which could scarcely have been anticipated. An immense commerce has of course sprung up in a quarter formerly but little frequented. England, as usual, is not behind hand in that commerce. As in every other part of the world, she has great interests at stake, great duties to perform, and great rights to defend by whomsoever threatened. Elsewhere she has thought fit to acquire and fortify stations important in an imperial point of view. Her watch towers are found perched in most of the prominent points in the world's oceanic highways. In the new world her interests on the north Atlantic are well protected by the important naval stations of the Bermudas and Halifax, and we may add the American Gibraltar—Quebec. But here on the Pacific—though so remote from the mother country—the work has yet to be done. Here we have only what nature has given us, a foundation. We do not think, therefore, that the San Francisco correspondent of the Times, in bringing before the British public at home, the necessity of taking decided steps for the defence the North Pacific Naval Station has acted in the slightest degree prematurely. For Britain to do so would only be to follow the policy upon which she has acted in other parts of the world. But in the face of the preparations both offensive and defensive, which the Americans are making in their territory all along this coast, immediate action is doubly necessary. No one can read a description of extensive and formidable fortifications erected for the purpose of defending the harbor of San Francisco; the great facilities she possesses for the repair and construction of vessels of war, in the Navy Yard at Mare Island, the large quantity of supplies of ordinance and materiel of war already on hand, and the military strength of California in men and money, without coming to the conclusion that in the event of a war with Britain, the United States would be in a much more favorable position on the Pacific Coast to operate offensively and defensively, than they would in the East. But when in addition to all this we hear of the construction of formidable floating batteries, such as the Monitor, to be stationed before San Francisco; at the mouth of the Columbia and at Port Angelos, and in addition to these an iron-clad frigate for cruising along the coast, and come to contrast these preparations with the state in which we find things here, we do not wonder at the New York Post of April 24, when quoting the correspondence above alluded to, indulging in a little sanguine speculation as to the fate of the British possessions on the Pacific in case of a war between the two countries Speaking of these colonies, that journal says: "The British Government, meantime, have left its own possessions on the Pacific coast entirely defenceless, one of those singular oversights which men and mice sometimes display. Instead of our being exposed to attack on the Pacific, it would be easy to capture in a fortnight all the British settlements in that part of the globe." And again, alluding to the defenseless state of Esquimalt harbor, it goes on in the following style. "There is nothing to prevent the capture of that harbor in a short time after the telegraph should convey an order for that purpose from Washington to San Francisco, and this possibly has been communicated to the British Government, and may have had some effect on the policy of Earl Russell. For he, as well as every other member of the British Cabinet must know, that a war with the United States can only end in sweeping away every vestage of British sovereignty on the shores of the continent; carrying out the Monroe doctrine even further than its great author anticipated." This, of course, must be taken for what it is worth, but it shows how our neighbors sometimes look at these things Some of the California papers, the Alta for instance, affect to laugh at the idea of these preparations being considered as threatening our interests. However, they know, and we know, that a war between the the two countries is not beyond the bounds of possibility, and that in the event of a contest, they would not, like a parcel of Chinese, rest merely on the defensive. Their unsuccessful attempt to take Canada in 1812, and the threats to swamp the small population of this country during the San Juan excitement, show what might take place, and show the necessity on our part of being always prepared. It is true we laughed at them during the San Juan affair, small as we were, simply because we knew right well, that we had vessels here, capable, not only of defending us, but also of making short work of every American port on this coast. While the Americans refrained from fortifying their ports, and building iron-clads, on the Pacific coast, we might perhaps do without any great preparations for defence, for with our vessels of war we could retaliate with terrible effect. But with fortifications and plated vessels on their part, circumstances are altered. The present war, and the experiments made by the Home Government show that our old vessels are not sufficient to stand against improved armor covered vessels. And therefore, that it would, as the Times correspondent contends, be possible, for a vessel such as the Monitor, to have complete command of the harbors of these Colonies, in spite of our present naval force.

Iron-plated vessels capable of meeting those of our American neighbors in process of construction for this coast, we need not expect to have for some time, and even then in the event of a war their presence would often be required elsewhere more than before our ports. The fortification of Esquimalt as our naval depot is necessary to enable our fleet to be fully available for all purposes. With the erection of a few well-constructed fortifications we would be enabled to give any enemy as warm a reception as the iron-clads lately received at Charleston.

Metlakahtla Mission.

A large and highly respectable public meeting took place in the Victoria Theatre last evening, to hear from Mr. Duncan, who has recently arrived from the scene of his missionary labors among the Tsimshean Indians, an account of the progress of the good work entrusted to his care.

Among the gentlemen on the platform, we noticed the Rev. Lachlin Taylor, agent of the British and Foreign Bible Society. The Rev. E. Cridge, Rev. J. Dundas, Rev. Dr. Evans, Rev. A. C. Garrett, Rev. Mr. Lucas, and others.

The chair was occupied by the Rev. E. Cridge, B. A.

The Rev. J. Dundas, M. A., opened the the meeting with prayer—after which a hymn was sung.

The Reverened Chairman, in a few brief but expressive words, described the purport of the meeting, and furnished an outline of the good work to which Mr. Duncan was devoted. He said that two points were established by Mr. Duncan's mission. First, that the Divine command given to the disciples to go and preach the Gospel to every nation, is not only still binding, but still expected of every faithful servant. And second, that christianity should take precedence of civilization. Many differed on this point, but Mr. Duncan would illustrate the truth of this assertion.

The Reverened gentleman concluded by expressing the pleasure he felt in introducing Mr. Duncan to the meeting.

Mr. Duncan was very warmly received. He said he felt he had undertaken a great task in venturing to address the meeting, but he hoped that the great cause he would advocate would not be permitted to suffer in consequence of his inability to do it full justice. He wished he could speak to them in the Tshimsean tongue, as he should feel much more at home. [Laughter]

Mr. Duncan then proceeded to deprecate the outcry raised by certain classes of persons against the poor Indian, and he most vehemently denounced that class who advocated their total extermination by fire and sword. Mr. D. next adverted to the difficulty he had to overcome in acquiring the language; he would meet a large assembly and feel full of words, but lacked the bridge over which to convey his ideas. People generally associated the miserable jargon called Chinook with the Indian language. The Indian's heart was only to be reached through his own language. It was a difficult language to attain, and abounded with long words, some containing as many as 30 syllables. Another great difficulty he had to battle with was the utter loneliness of his position.

He then proceeded to describe the intense darkness which pervaded the Indian mind on his first appearance among them, and after getting a number of young children into something like order, the winter would come, the intoxicating feast commence, the children be snatched from him, and all his hopes crushed; and after preaching to them the Word of God he would see them like young demons sitting on the shore, eating dogs. Young men in whom he saw hopes, were in similar manner drawn into the whirlpool.

Young women, too, he struggled hard to reclaim, but Victoria and other places pulled against him, and he had to yield.

The speaker then alluded to the heathen customs which were most prevalent and absorbing.

That of the presentation of gifts, for the love of display, stood first. He described the custom of exchange of property universally adopted by the Indians, with the pomp and show attending such exhibitions, and mentioned that, at his birth, each Indian has a ridiculous name, of which he afterwards feels ashamed, and can only change it for a better by degrees, according to the property he boasts of. Mr. Duncan had great difficulty in combating this practice, especially with those who had last parted with property and expected a return.

The next was the custom of medicine work. He discribed it as a kind of masonry, which was difficult to get at, but had firm hold of the natives. The speaker here narrated scenes of horror which he himself had witnessed, the wretched beings who professed the craft not only eat dogs, but human flesh. One man who had taken a prominent part in such a horrid deed, he added, died a true christain at his station. [Applause.]

The medicine instruments, which had spell bound the Indians for ages, were now thrown away and forgotten.

Mr. Duncan then referred to the practices of painting their faces, gambling, and tearing up the property of tha departed.

None of these customs were now indulged in at Metelakatla. [Hear, hear]

The present condition of the Station was next depicted. There are thirty seven houses built in English fashion, and they endeavored to live as under a civilized Government. Taxation was a necessary evil which he (Mr. Duncan) was compelled to introduce. [Laughter.] Adults had to pay on New Year's day $2 50, or a blanket, and boys $1 or a shirt. He had now 100 blankets, 17 shirts and $7 [laughter,] and proposed giving half to the Chief and expending the other half on public works, roads and houses (no grog shops, by-the-by.) [Laughter.]

Mr. Duncan then adverted to their love for peace, and their habits of industry; it was well understood by his people that a lazy man was to be turned out of the station like a drone from a bee-hive.

The Speaker then proceeded to give some anecdotes illustrating the improvement which had been engrafted upon the Indians, connected with his mission, and also gave an interesting description of some of their legends, and of peculiar traits in the Indian character, and his mode of dealing and reasoning with them (which we regret we cannot find space for), and concluded his most entertaining address by an appeal to the charitably disposed in aid of the work to which he was devoted. Mr. Duncan, on taking his seat, was loudly applauded.

Some gentlemen then went round and obtained a handsome collection.

A vote of thanks was given to Mr. Duncan, and after a hymn had been sung, the meeting separated.

COMAX.—We learn from a gentleman who arrived yesterday afternoon from Comax in a canoe, that this district was perfectly quiet. Crops and vegetation were very forward. Vegetables were to be had two or three weeks back. About 60 or 70 settlers had taken up land, but some had made improvements and obtained leave of absence. There are two stores and one restaurant in Comax Bay; the latter is kept by Louis Comrome. The Euclataws, numbering about 100, are the only tribe who cause any annoyance to the settlers; they do not belong to the district, but pay periodical visits. The Comax Indians do not exceed forty in number and are very peaceably disposed.

FROM PORT MADISON.—The schooner Discovery arrived yesterday with 45 M feet of lumber, and 10 M feet of laths, consigned to Mr. Sayward. She reports that the bark Christopher Mitchell had been got off and towed into port.

TREASURE BY THE ESCORT.—The Bank of British Columbia forwarded yesterday nearly $75,000 in notes and specie, to the Richfield Branch, in charge of the Escort.

☞ H. M. S. Devastation sailed for the South yesterday.

Arrival of the Forward.

The gunboat Forward, Commander Lascelles, arrived yesterday afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock.

She brought Superintendent Smith, with his guides and three prisoners, amongst whom is the noted A-chee-wun; and had the two launches of the Topaze in tow.

The following is a brief account of her proceedings:

Arrived at Cowichan at 9, P. M., on Sunday 31st ultimo.

On Monday it rained incessently; joined the Cameleon at Chemanos at night. Landed at the village, but could obtain no information, the Indians were evidently unwilling to assist.

On Tuesday morning early, went to Penelicut, but got no information. Took 6 Indians on board to render assistance. Superintendent Smith landed in Montigue Harbor with the Indians, guides, and five marines, supported by the first launch.

The gunboat, with Capt. Hardinge, of the Cameleon, on board, went to Plumper Pass.

At the foot of the mountains, Superintendent Smith's party discovered a fresh footprint which satisfied them that one of the men of whom they were in search, was at hand. They then proceeded round to join Lt Geneste, with the first launch, when he and the greater part of his command, accompanied Superintendent Smith's party over the back of the mountain. On the summit of the mountain, the Indians discovered the three men, who dropped some amunition and fled. Gave chase and drove them down the face of the mountain. Just as they were on the point of catching them, the gunboat and second launch were seen in the straits, and a voley fired to bring them in. As they were on the point of landing, A-chee-mun and his two tillicums were caught and handed over to Lt. Pusey's command, and by him conveyed to the gunboat.

At night returned to Osborne Bay and rejoined the Chameleon. Continued all the rest of the week searching for the other men.

On Thursday searched an island in Montague Harbor, and after returning, while sitting in the launch, one of the fire arms was accidentally moved and exploded, killing a young gunner's mate of the Topaze, named Newsome, and wounding another in the hand. Dr. Fenn was present and did all he could, but his efforts were unavailing and the poor lad died in a few hours.

On Friday Capt. Hardinge, Lt. Lascelles, Superintendent Smith, and a party proceeded up Chemanus river, and visited the villages but obtained no results.

There are still two or three of the Lamal chas hiding in the woods, but they could not be discovered.

The worst of the tribe have all been now apprehended.

FROM NEW ZEALAND.—The bark Bessie, Capt. Gay, arrived from New Zealand last night, and came to anchor in the outer roads. She has been 108 days en route, touching at Otaheite, comes in ballast, and brings no passengers, with the exception of the Captain's family. The Bessie spoke the Rising Sun, from England, 164 days, with 58 passengers, all well.

NAVAL EXPEDITION.—The Forward left H M. S. Cameleon at Osborne Bay and will rejoin her in a couple of days when Supt. Smith will proceed in the further search of murderers on the N. W. Coast. Too much praise, we are told, cannot be awarded to Capt. Hardinge, Lieuts. Lascelles, Geneste, Pusey, and the rest of the officers of the expedition who were untiring in their exertions to capture the Lamalchas.

NO WAR WITH ENGLAND.—An exchange says: It is stated that the Prince of Wales sent a piece of weding cake to Mrs. Lincoln, who divided it among her friends. Of cour e there will be no war with England after that.

☞ Professor Belew will exhibit his wonderful power in subduing an intractable horse this day at 2 p. m., in the Theatre.

GOLD ESCORT.—The officers, and troopers, with their horses, van, and all accoutrements, left last evening by the Otter.

FROM PORT ANGELOS.—The schooner F. P. Green Howard arrived yesterday from Port Angelos.

CARD.

EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST:—Sir—In my card published in your yesterday's issue, a typographical error occurred which I wish to correct. Instead of reading "the whole of packs, saddles and treasure-bags were made by me," it should have read "the whole of the packsaddles and treasure-bags were made by me," I observe that the Express of this evening attempts to make capital out of this typographical error, and charges me with being "envious of a fellow tradesman." My simple denial to the charge of envy, I deem quite sufficient to vindicate myself from that uncalled for and unfounded remark. But as the Express persists in making misstatements by saying that the "whole of the riding saddles" were made by Mr. Gibbon, allow me again to correct it by stating that that gentleman only made "three riding saddles," and not the whole. In addition let me remark that the Express is wrong also in stating that the pack-saddles and treasure-bags were necessarily subject to several alterations. No alteration whatever, has been made in them—not a stitch.

W. NEWBERRY.

A Juror on the late Inquest.

EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST—SIR: I observed an article in your issue of to-day, headed, "The late Inquest," and signed by C. H. DeWolfe. Permit me, in reply to of fer one or two brief remarks: and first, as regards Seibert's testimony. It is my opinion that, considering the circumstances in which the young man was placed, it being, as he states, his first appearance in a Court—his intimate connexion with the deceased—and the prevalent suspicions connected with the death of Mr. Wood—his evidence was given with wonderful coolness and self-possion. There was nothing in the young man's manner, nor in what he said, that led me to conclude that he was knowingly false in his statement.

As regards the enquiry made at the inquest by a Juror, whether Dr. DeWolfe held a diploma, and from where, as a Doctor of Medicine, I think the question was quite proper, not only as regards Dr. DeWolfe, but as regards any other Medical practitioners in evidence before a Court, on the same, or similar circumstances. Instead of regarding such a question irrelevant, or insulting, Dr. DeWolfe should at once have answered the enquiry, and even been ready to produce his credentials, thus vindicating to the Court his standing as a Medical practitioner, and also the dignity of the profession, which he may have thought assailed in his person. With regard to the "Two good Witnesses," which he says were brought forward to disprove the testimony of Seibert. If he means the testimony of Dyson, and the Greek, so far from considering the testimony of those two parties "good," or at all conclusive, against Seibert, I consider it of very little value. Dyson's testimony might have proved good evidence, had it been supported by the positive corroborative testimony of the Greek; but on examination the testimony of the latter tended to weaken rather than confirm that of Dyson, inasmuch as it failed to corroborate that point, for which it was adduced, and on which the value of Dyson's testimony rested, viz: that Seibert had given Wood laudanum on the morning or forenoon of the day on which he died.

In his review of the proceedings there is one point, and a most important one, to which Dr. De Wolfe has not adverted, viz., the testimony of Drs. Forbes and Haggin. These gentlemen were of one mind as to Dr. De Wolfe's treatment of Mr. Wood, and their opinion was that the treatment prescribed by him for the recovery of his patient was "bad," and that opium, which Dr. De Wolfe admitted he had administered on the day previous, was inadmissible. One of these gentlemen, at any rate, could not have been prejudiced against Dr. De Wolfe, and it appeared to me, that both gave their opinion on this point with reluctance.

For myself I can say, and I believe on behalf of my brother jurors, that I observed nothing during the proceedings on the part of the Coroner that could be construed as partial or unjust.

A JUROR.

The "Alabama"—How England has Sinned

Professor Goodwin Smith, in a letter to the London Daily News of the 13th April combats the pleas of sympathizers in England in reference to the Alabama, He says:

"There is no 'law' between nations which can supersede the jurisdiction of natural morality and honor, as the jurisdiction of natural morality and honor is superseded between persons under the same jurisdiction by municipal law. And if we presume that there is such a law, and at the bidding of its professors disregard the rules of natural morality and honor in any case where those rules are against us, we shall involve ourselves in unjust wars.

* * * "The Alabama was not 'exported.' She did not go, nor was she intended to go, to any place in the territory of her purchasers. Fitted out, manned, and really commissioned in this country, she has been cruising from a British port against the commerce of a friendly nation. Every one can see the broad difference between such a case as this and the case of a vessel bought in a neutral country by a belligerent, and carried by the purchaser into his own port, there to be fitted out, manned, and sent forth against the enemy as a ship-of-war. That this vessel is not cruising from her own port is clear from this, among other things, that she is compelled to burn her prizes at sea, instead of taking them to be condemned in a prize court, a practice which is against the usages of civilized war.

"If there is anything at all analogous to the case of the Alabama, it is the permitting troops to pass over your territory to the invasion of a friendly power. Suppose Ireland, embracing the principles laid down by the Southern party in America and in this country, were to use the sacred right of secession. Suppose we had blockaded the Irish ports; and suppose Spain were to allow privateers commissioned by the rebel Government of Ireland, with Spanish crews, to issue from the Spanish ports and prey upon our commerce; what would the people of this country demand of their Government! They must expect the American people to demand the same of theirs.

"As to the nominal transformation which these ships undergo when out at sea, by the reading of a commission from Jefferson Davis, and the calling for volunteers among a crew who have been engaged and paid from the outset as men-of-war's men, such a h cus-pocus cannot affect any moral question. In the eye of morality it is nothing but a proof of fraud. Nor does the running up for a moment of Confederate colors lessen the injury done to the honor of this country by privateering, as the Alabama does, under the British flag."

WHAT ENGLAND MUST EXPECT. — John Bonner, who seldom deals in the lurid, writes a ferocious paragraph for the leading article in Harper's Weekly of April 25th. Listen:

So soon as the restoration of the Union has been achieved, we look to see energetic measures adopted by our Government for the settlement of accounts with England. We expect to see every man who has lost a dollar by the depredations of the Alabama paid in full, with interest by the British Government. The amount can always be collected in the port of New York. Half a dozen British steamers and a score of British ships seized and sold at auction by the United States Marshall would go far to make a balance. And when England next goes to war look out for retaliation. Though her antagonist be only some Hottentot chief, the ocean shall bristle with American cruisers bearing his flag, and England may rely upon it, that for every peaceful American trader that has been burned during this war by British pirates, ten British vessels will then be destroyed. The next war in which England engages will be the end of her foreign commerce. We mistake our countrymen greatly if, at the end of twelve months, they leave a ship bearing the British flag afloat in any sea from the German Ocean to Behrings' Straits.

SHIPPING.

Statement of Vessels Entered at the Port of Victoria, V. I., during the month of May, 1863:

BRITISH COLONIST.

Odds and Oddities.

The Moldavian Islanders eat alone. They retire into the most hinder parts of their houses, and they draw down the cloths that serve as blinds to their windows, that they may eat unobserved. On the contrary the Islanders of the Phillipines are remarkably sociable. Whenever one of them finds himself without a companion to partake of his meal, he runs till he meets wit) one, and however keen his appetite may be, he ventures not to satisfy it without a guest. The tables of the rich Chinese shine with a beautiful varnish, and are covered with silk carpets very elegantly worked. They do not make use of plates, knives and forks; every guest has two little ivory or ebon sticks, which he handles very adroitly. A Kamschatkan kneels before his guest; he cuts an enormous slice from a sea calf; he crams it entire into the mouth of his friend, furiously crying out "Tana!" there! and cutting away what hangs about his lips, snatches and devours it with avidity.

MODERN LOVE.—A correspondent of a contemporary says:—"It is my duty to impress upon you the certain fact that one-half of our young people lose their senses when they lose their hearts. One of our party has already written five letters to his ladye love, and he goes about groaning and sighing in the most pitiable manner. He has no appetite, and sleeps up at the top of the house, close to the moon. He cannot stand by one of the columns of the piazza without putting his arm round its waist; and I caught him kissing an apple to-day, because it had red cheeks."

QUITE AMERICAN.—A Maine editor says that a pumpkin in that State grew so large, that eight men could stand around it. This is like the man who saw a flock of blackbirds so low, that he could shake a stick at them.

A celebrated philosopher, when asked by a stupid fellow why he indulged so much in the luxuries of the table, replied. "What, sir, do you think that Providence made good things only for fools."

An old gentleman, on retiring from business, gave the following sage advice to his son and successor: "Common sense, my son, is valuable in all kinds of business—except love making"

"Give me a kiss, dear girl." "I can't," she replied; "I don't mind lending you one, but I must have it returned to-morrow."

ALBION IRON WORKS!

Chatham and Discovery Streets.

Near Dickson, Campbell & Co.'s New Warehouse Store street.

VICTORIA, V. I.,

JOSEPH SPRATT, PROPRIETOR.

In order to meet the wants of Vancouver Island, British Columbia, and Puget Sound, the Proprietor of the ALBION IRON WORKS has been induced to expend a large sum of money in erecting a

MACHINE SHOP
—AND—
Foundry,

On such improved principles as to enable him to do work with unusual despatch, in the best manner, and at most reasonable rates.

There is no similar establishment on the Pacific Coast, that is larger, or better prepared to execute every kind of Machinery, Engines, Blacksmithing, and Iron and Brass Castings. No one need go to San Francisco to fill orders, as the work can be executed at the ALBION IRON WORKS as well, at as low rates, and with as much despatch

In the Machine Shop there are Bolt-cutting, Planing and heavy turning Machines.

In the BLACKSMITH SHOP there is a powerful steam blast which enables the Proprietor to do Heavy Blacksmithing.

The attention of persons, and particularly miners, about purchasing Steam Engines, is directed to the Improved Portable Engines, constructed at the Albion Iron Works. These Engines can be successfully worked for Threshing, Hoisting, Pumping, Pile driving, or for any other use where small power is required. They are simple in construction, have an Economical Boiler, and are considered the best portable engines in use. They would be invaluable auxilaries to the Miners for Hoisting and Pumping.

All orders for high and low pressure Steam Engines, Grist and Quartz Mills, Pumping Machinery, Blacksmithing, Brass and Iron Castings, and everything done at a Machine Shop and Foundry, can be filled at the Albion Iron Works.

Particular attention paid to Steamboat Work and general repairs.

Terms: Cash and Low Prices.

Every Person Should Know

THAT THE

Shortest, Best and Cheapest

IS VIA THE

YALE AND LYTTON

WAGON ROAD!

The chained distances on the Yale and Lytton Road are as follows:

Distance from Douglas to Junction	157 Miles

The Junction

Is the point at which the Wagon Roads intersect each other, and where the Cariboo-bound traveller by the Yale-Lytton and Douglas-Lillooet routes MUST meet. It will, therefore, be seen by the above figures that the traveller by YALE and LYTTON has

THIRTY-THREE MILES LESS TRAVEL

Than if he went by the Douglas-Lillooet Route.

☞ Remember that on this Route there are NO PORTAGES where Goods or Animals may be detained.

Messrs. DUHIG, LANE, BLACK, and other Carriers of Merchandise, advertise to Carry Freight from Yale to Lytton

$20 Per Ton Less

Than is or will be charged on the Douglas-Lillooet Route.

THE NEW AND SPLENDID STEAMER

"Reliance"

Connects with the Victoria Steamer

"Enterprise"

And conveys her Freight and Passengers to Yale at greatly reduced Rates.

Shippers

Desirous of getting Freight through to Cariboo this season are advised to Shun the Douglas-Lillooet Route!!

☞ And are also referred to the testimony adduced in the CRANFORD CASE, wherein witnesses have stated upon oath that 25, 20, or even 30 Days is a reasonable time to convey Freight from Douglas to Lillooet.

Five Days only are Required

To carry Goods from Yale to Lytton, and

Shippers are Assured

That if Freight is carried from Douglas to Lillooet for Two Cents per lb.,

CARRIERS ARE PREPARED TO

FREIGHT FROM YALE TO LYTTON

With Safety and Despatch, for

One Cent Per Lb.!

All those who allow themselves to be crammed by Douglasites this year need expect no sympathy from the public if they get broke in trying to get goods through that route.

☞ Remember the Cranford affair, and steer clear of extortion and delays.

Travel the Yale and Lytton Wagon Road to the Cariboo Mines.

☞ New and Commodious Hotels have been erected at convenient distances along the entire length of the Route, where First Class Accommodations for both man and beast are bestowed at moderate rates.

☞ FOR CHEAPNESS, DESPATCH, EASE and SECURITY choose the Yale and Lytton Route in preference to all others in British Columbia.

HEALTH FOR A SHILLING.

Holloway's Pills.

Headaches, Bile, Loss of Appetite, and Lowness of Spirits.

These Pills require no interruption of business or pleasure; they act mildly on the bowels, strengthen the stomach, and promote a healthy action of the liver, whereby they purify the blood, cleanse the skin, brace the nerves, and invigorate the whole system. They effect a truly wonderful change in debilitated constitutions, as they create a healthy appetite correct indigestion, remove bile, giddiness, headaches, and palpitation of the heart.

Weakness and Debility.

of debility, languor, and nervousness generally, excess of any kind, whether mental or physical effect of these Pills is in the highest degree bracing, renovating and restorative. They drive from the system the morbid cause of disease; re-establish the digestion, regulate all the secretions, brace the nervous system, raise the patient's spirits, and bring back the frame to its pristine health and vigor They increase the appetite, while they secure perfect digestion to all ordinary food, and release the invalid from restraint in diet.

A Word to Females.

There are two periods, especially in Woman's life, which require for safe passage, judgment and attention. Irregularity is apt at those critical times to take place, and to lay the foundation of future disease These Pills, safe in action, and effective in result, should be taken at certain periods, and the issue will be marvellous both to the young and the middle aged. They prevent nervousness, hysterics, dropsy, and a host of similar serious disorders, by expelling all impurities from the system, therefore none should ever be without them.

Coughs, Colds, and Asthmas,

No medicine will cure colds so quickly as these Pills, when of long duration or settled on the chest or even though it has assumed the first stage of asthma they may be relied on as a certain and never failing cure, particularly if the Ointment be well rubbed into the chest and throat night and morning. this catch the eye of any asthmatical person so bad as even not able to lie down in bed, let him well use these two preparations for only a week, and the result will be marvellous.

Blood to the Head—Diseases of the Heart

More persons die suddenly from diseases of the heart than the unlearned suppose: in such complaints, the bowels should always be kept well open, as also where there is a tendency of blood to the head. These celebrated Pills purify the blood in an extraordinary manner, and should be taken in copious doses when such symptoms occur, lest they cannot to overload the stomach; by this means all danger is quickly averted.

Children's Complaints.

It is not generally known, but such is the fact, that children require medicine oftener than their parents Three-fourths of the children die before they attain the age of eight years. Let mothers, then, be wise and give to their children small doses of these invaluable Pills once or twice every week, in such quantity as may act gently upon the system twice in the twenty-four hours. For infants, a Pill may be crushed and given as a powder in a little water The gross humors that are constantly floating about in the blood of children, the forerunners of so many complaints, will thus be expelled, and the lives of thousands saved and preserved to their parents.

Holloway's Pills are the best remedy known in the world for the following diseases:
